PRESIDENT WILL TELL RETAILERS PRICES MUST DROP

Will Point Out in Speech Here That Labor as Well as Cost Readjustments Are Necessary.

WASHINGTON, May 20. DRESIDENT HARDING IS preparing some outspoken advice to the husiness world which will be delivered in a speech at New York City Monday. A rough draft of this address, which the President is working on to-day, indicates that he is growing somewhat impatient with the failure of retail prices to drop toward a pre-war level. President Harding's speech, to be delivered at a dinner in honor of the 125th anniversary of the New York Commercial, attended by New York's leading publishers and business men, will deal with business and labor problems chiefly.

Wage readjustments, it will be pointed out, are as inevitable as price reductions, and with this word of advice to labor the President will make a auggestion to business men that they strive harder for efficiency and reduced
